

THE BRANDON MAIL.

VOL. NO. BRANDON, MAN., THURSDAY, APRIL 26, 1892. FIVE CENTS

OUR ROLLING STOCK.

You can get along without collar and cuffs, but you can't get along very well. They are exceedingly useful and when they happen to be all right they are exceedingly ornamental. If you are not fastidious you might almost as well be without them. Nothing gives its self away, so to speak, as quickly as a damaged collar or a frayed cuff. People will notice them when they don't notice anything else about you. Why not wear good shirts, good collars, good ties, good underwear, good shoes and hosiery, when we can show you the very best English, French, German, and American goods at the same prices you have to pay for inferior articles anywhere but in an exclusive gentlemen's furnishing and clothing house. This is the same satisfaction in wearing our new office shirt; it's better wear, and fit and not cut your throat with your collar and costs only $1.25. All the leading makes of W. G. & R. Skatons, Toaks & Messer, shirts, collars, cuffs and ties.

A VALUABLE PUBLICATION.

We have been shown a copy of the Revised Edition of "The Practical Home Physician" and as we have used the old edition for some years we can speak from personal knowledge as to its merits. We found the old edition the best family medical book printed and from the new matter contained in the revised edition we are convinced that it is much superior to the old as it brings everything up to date and corrects and completes all portions which were found wanting in the old. The revised edition contains over thirteen hundred pages of printed matter, thirty full page colored plates, two life size anatomical and several hundred other engravings. It also contains an Index of Symptoms, the most valuable feature yet published for the diagnosis of Disease.

In the revised edition will be found Sir Andrew Clark's celebrated prescription for Indigestion; this is undoubtedly the best prescription written for that trouble, some disease and is worth to every family many times the cost of the complete book. The article on "La Grippe" is the best one ever written and the latest it was only finished the 2nd of January 1892.

The old edition was the work of four eminent doctors and there is now over one million copies of it in actual use. To assist in the revision three other doctors were employed all of them noted specialists; so there can be no doubt that the work has been completely and thoroughly done. The old edition supplanted all rivals and the revised edition is in every way a very great improvement over the old. It is a book that at once commands itself to the public for its written, prescriptions and text in plain English so that every one can understand it readily.

We believe it to be not only a luxury but a necessity in every household, while no book will take the place of the skillful and careful Physician, yet this one will be found of inestimable value in many cases of emergencies, and until the doctor comes, and after he has gone, it will be of great service, it will also assist while he is with you, as the best doctors find it more satisfactory to treat a patient possessing some rational idea of disease and treatment than one lacking that knowledge. Our best doctors have given this book their unqualified endorsement. This book is a Canadian work, published at Guelph, Ont., by the "World Publishing Co." and it is the choicest work of the kind we have seen. The Publishers do not charge any one to show any book of this size and value sold for the same money. The agent for this work is now in the city and will give all an opportunity of seeing it.

Brandon Poultry Association.

I am homesick and lonely,
And life's but a dream,
I'm a chicken that was born
In a hatching machine.

Compelled in this cold world
Sally to rove,
No mother to shelter me,
No place to call home.

No mother to teach me
To scratch or to cluck,
I hardly can tell
Whether I'm a chicken or duck.

If a pullet I prove
I'll sit round all day,
And never a bit
Of an egg will I lay.

J. C. Harrison.

Improved Poultry.

The demand for improved stock has never been greater than at the present time. This is an age of progress and he who would keep up with the times, must improve his poultry. When a poultryer starts with common stock, with a view to ultimate success and pecuniary profit, he has up-hill work before him. Do as he will they will produce their like, and he cannot successfully compete with improved breeds.

J. C. Harrison.

Wall Paper.

The stock of the city is now open at Cliffe's bookstore, 8th street and Rosser Avenue. All other dealers are distanced in price, taking quality into account. Remember you can save 20% by buying at Cliffe's.

SELLING THEIR CHILDREN.

Starving Russian Peasants Disposing of their Children to buy Bread.

St. Petersburg, April 6.—In Kiel, the selling of children by their parents is said to be carried on daily. A peasant named Gassnik, who had eaten all his grain and his cow and was starving, sold on Monday his eight year old daughter for six roubles in the village of Naima; girls of eight years are offered for five roubles, and girls of five years for three roubles. A number of 13 and 14 years have been offered this week for ten roubles each.

ANIMALS LOVE THE WEED.

A Star and Calico Kid threw All the Tobacco From the Farm.

The child set forth from the farm, and would have been a great deal of animal would have the weed that even the farm boy knows it, seems to be a favorite of the animals. In the village of Naima, a farmer living on the Post Bay road near Lake Ontario, is the owner of a new and well that are extremely fond of tobacco. The mare formed the habit long before the birth of the colt, and in the case of the youngster the appetite seems to have been inherited. Three years ago Mrs. Russell decided that she would save the mare of her habit, and to do so she gave her two roubles of fine cut which she discovered with relief. This not finding her a bit better led tobacco, of which she is a producer in a small way. After showing away a quantity of this she showed symptoms of distress. She was dizzy, and wanted to lie down and think over her sins, about as a small child might have wanted to do under similar circumstances. This settled her, as far as the plain fact was concerned. She has never tasted it since, though fine cut touches the spot the same as ever it did.

This was not long previous to the birth of the colt, and the little fellow exhibited almost from the first the "hacker" for a chew. It was he, however, while he was yet at nurse, and from that day to this both animals will follow any stranger all over the lot who has the smell of tobacco about his clothes. The colt, strange to say, was not affected by the mother's aversion to tobacco but loves that even better than the mare and indicates all of either that is forthcoming. Both animals are beautiful, and no healthier are to be found in horseflesh in these parts. Mr. Russell says he thinks the use of tobacco has kept them from having intestinal worms, which so often distress horses and injure their digestion. The mare is now eleven years old and the colt is over two.

EARLESS EZEKIEL EADS.

A Freak of Nature, Born Earless—His Hair Was Picked Out.

Ezekiel Eads, who died in Greene county, N. Y., in the spring of 1888, was surely a fit subject for a fine museum, even though he never descended to that level, says the Weebling (W. Va.) Register. Strictly speaking, Eads was in several respects a most remarkable creature. He was born without ears, not even having apertures where the ears should have been. His deformity, said as it was, may be said to have been partly alleviated by the curious construction of the inner portion of his head, which enabled him to hear common conversation through his mouth.

When addressed he would instantly open his mouth and readily give answers to interrogations put to him in an ordinary tone of voice. But Ezekiel's lack of ears was not his only distinction. He had a heavy crop of black hair spotted with white, the spots themselves being in exact shape of human ears, feet, hands, etc. When he was quite a small boy it was noticed that his black hair was interspersed with oddly shaped spots of white, which, however, did not take on their distinctive shapes until he had passed his fifteenth year.

When Mr. Eads died he left one son, aged forty-five, whose hair was as black as coal, not a single gray hair being discernible, and another, an eighteen year old, whose hair was gray as that of a man of seventy.

A MURDERER'S EXPLOITS.

The West Hartlepool Murderer Committed Extensive Frauds in the Territories.

It appears that Downing, the English murderer arrested in Australia for crimes, particulars of which have appeared in the telegraphic columns of the Free Press, was at one time a resident of the Northwest Territories. A Winnipeg gentleman has handed in a clipping from an English paper which reads:—

A statement has been made by a gentleman at West Hartlepool, where Downing was well known, that under the name of Williams he extended his exploits to Canada, where, about the year 1884, in the province of Assiniboia, he contracted for a large quantity of land. He afterwards commenced business as a watch maker, but ultimately despatched with a large number of valuable watches, entrusted to him by the settlers, and also with a costly watch belonging to the son of an English nobleman, who was touring in the neighborhood at the time.

Meredith, N. Y., April 4.—Mrs. Geo. E. Wiggin was most brutally murdered on the railroad station platform here this morning by her husband. On account of his brutality Mrs. Wiggin had entered suit for divorce. They met at the railroad station this morning and after a brief conversation Wiggin drew a dagger and stabbed his wife half a dozen times and then calmly waited the woman's body until it was shown removed from her body. Wiggin was arrested by a deputy sheriff who witnessed the tragedy.

St. Matthews.

The concert and tableaux in the in the City Hall on Tuesday night in aid of St. Matthew's church, was a most successful affair. The instrumental pieces by Messrs. Megget, Butcher and Clarke, and Miss Harper were excellent. The singing of the quartette club, Messrs. Atcherley, Irwin, McInnis and Louis was as good as usual, which means a great deal, and the solos of Mrs. W. A. Macdonald and Miss Preston, especially those of the former, brought forth rounds of applause. Mrs. Leeston Smith and Mrs. Cliffe, who were billed for solos, were prevented from rendering them by severe colds. In their solos, Messrs. Atcherley and Irwin never did better.

In the second part a tableaux, in which Miss Fannie and Mable Harper, Miss Matheson, and Mesdames Maitry, Leeston Smith, Douglas, Macdonald and Kavanagh were participants, gave the best of satisfaction, in so far as the acts of the ladies were concerned, but the lights were very deficient and impaired the views considerably.
